A NEW SWEDISH ISSUE.

The case of the Misses Smith, of Glastonbury, Conn, whose favorite heifers were seized for taxes notwithstanding their protest against "taxation without representation," is recalled by a report in the North Star of a recent difficulty at Woodland Plantation, in which one of the Swedish immigrants, his cow and the tax gatherer were the conspicuous actors. It seems that C J Ek, who with several of the Swedish families has settled in Woodland, was called upon by the Collector last Monday for the tax which had been legally assessed upon him He refused to pay, when the Collector seized the delinquent's cow and was driving her away, whereupon Ek became greatly enraged and levelling a loaded gun at the officer threatened to shoot him The wife of the Swede, fearing the consequences of her husband's passion, grasped the weapon, when the Collector, fearing assassination, promised to leave the cow if the man would not fire, and departed without the animal.

On the next day Ek was arrested by the Deputy Sheriff, taken to Caribou village and arraigned before a Trial Justice for threatening the life of an officer The accused was defended by Pastor Wiren, of New Sweden, and it was urged that the man believed the tax to be illegal, owing to a promise made to the immigrants before starting for this country, that they were to be exempted from taxation for five years after their settlement. They state that a circular was distributed in Sweden offering this exemption among the inducements for emigration and they do not understand that the provision applies only to those remaining within the limits of the colony The settlers in New Sweden have paid no taxes and those settling elsewhere claim that they are entitled to the same immunity. On the other side it was urged that the exemption applied only to the Colony, that the settlers in Woodland have the benefit of free schools without paying tuition, as in New Sweden, that the tax required of them is less than their neighbors voluntarily pay, and that it is legally imperative upon the authorities to levy and collect it.

The prisoner refused to recognize in $200 for his appearance and insisted upon going to jail, where he has been since last Wednesday From the account in the Star it would seem that there is a misunderstanding among the Swedes upon this question of taxes, which may lead to serious difficulty, unless it is promptly attended to They are naturally tenacious of the privileges to which they believe themselves entitled and expect the fulfilment of the pledges and representations which they understood to be the basis of their removal to this country Being unfamiliar with the customs and laws of the country, some of them may labor under false impressions, and if so the conditions of their settlement should be fully explained to them The proper State authorities should look into this matter at once

THE CURRENCY

A Washington special states that the House Committee on Banking and Currency determined on Monday to proceed at once to sketch the outlines of a bill, to be matured at subsequent meetings and reported to the House at as early a date as practicable For this purpose the committee proceeded to vote upon a number of propositions It was first decided to report adversely upon Mr Kelley's three sixty five bill The question, should the national banking system be abolished, was then put and decided in the negative. The same disposition was made of the proposition to substitute greenbacks for national bank notes Having put these questions out of the way, the committee went on, in a series of votes, to lay out a plan for a bill to modify the present banking system The following were agreed upon as the leading features of the bill

First, that restriction on the total amount of bank circulation shall be repealed, which is equivalent to authorizing free banking under the provisions of the present law, except as modified by the committee's bill; second, that the requirement that banks shall keep a reserve of greenbacks in their vaults to redeem their notes shall be repealed, and that, instead, every bank shall deposit in the Treasury greenbacks amounting to five per cent. of its circulation as a fund for the redemption of its notes, and shall keep this reserve good, third, that banks shall not be allowed to pay or receive interest on deposits with each other, fourth that country banks shall be required to keep their deposit reserves at home, fifth, that gold banks shall be allowed to issue notes to the amount of 80 per cent. only of their bonds, instead of 90 as at present.

It is understood that only three members of the committee voted against reporting a bill combining these features, and that these were Messrs Hawley, Phelps and Mitchell

The Boston Advertiser prints a damaging letter written in 1871, by Congressman Starkweather of Connecticut, to a prominent member of the District of Columbia ring, suggesting that pecuniary assistance from his friends in his approaching election contest would be very acceptable Starkweather was elected and, subsequently, as Chairman of the Committee, made the two reports on the investigation ordered by the House. The reports were favorable, and this disclosure looks squally for Starkweather

The Portland Advertiser solemnly announces that it will bolt the Republican party a year hence unless it is permitted to select the party candidates From this important statement we assume that the Advertiser proposes to join the Republican party at some time during the year

An Augusta despatch to the Boston Herald says another meeting of the Democratic Committee will be held February 20th, when S D Leavitt will resign the chairmanship It is stated that other members of the committee will tender their resignations at the proposed meeting Again we ask What for?

It is said that Thomas B Van Buren will be rejected as Consul to Kanagawa, Japan, the committee on Foreign Relations refusing to report on the nomination favoribly, on the ground that if Van Buren be guilty of the charges made by Minister Jay in relation to the Vienna Exposition, then he is not fit to be a consular officer. A very sensible conclusion.

Since the present term of the United States Supreme Court, call of the docket has progressed from cause No. 1 to 200, and many of the cases have been finally disposed of by judgment. The judges have worked unremittingly now for over three months, and it is expected they will soon take a recess to enable some of them to visit their families, and to afford opportunity to despatch the business already accumulated. The new Chief Justice will take his seat upon the reassembling of the Court.

A statement of the directors of the United States mints shows the amount of gold and silver bullion, including abraded and foreign coin, operated upon at the mints for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1873 to have been $60,881,666, or $33,279,956 more than for the same period in 1872. The gain to the stock of coin in the country during the first six months of the current fiscal year is given at about $30,000,000 gold and $1,000,000 silver. The number of trade dollars issued was $1,225,000.

The Portland Press has been requested to state that those who attend the Woman Suffrage Convention at Augusta, will be furnished free return tickets over the railroads by the Executive Committee at the meeting.

The Traveller, Globe and Advertiser indorse the suggestion of the Commercial Bulletin that Boston should have a great industrial exhibition the coming fall. The Portland Board of Manufactures have also called a public meeting with a view to arranging for an Industrial Exhibition at the Natural Seaport.

A Washington Special says the bill authorizing the establishment of postal savings banks was voted down by an almost unanimous vote of the committee, but upon the statement that such action would be considered disrespectful to Postmaster General Creswell this vote was reconsidered, and the chairman was authorized to report the bill to the House, for discussion in Committee of the Whole, which is a mild way of consigning the bill to its death

A court at Richmond, Virginia, has tried a young blood of that city, who had hounded another man into fighting a duel and then shot him, and the jury found him guilty of "involuntary homicide. "He is sentenced to pay a fine of $500 This is a cheap method of disposing of a rival, and we suppose the high born belle about whom they fought will reward the victor with her favors. This is one of the cases which we suppose would fall within the Talbot-Goddard specification of killing with "the provocation of a great wrong" The fact that another man should aspire to win the affections of a certain young lady, was doubtless regarded by the slayer as a "great wrong," and if so it is certainly one for which there could be no "adequate legal redress" What an elastic law that of our Portland friends would be

The old adage about thieves falling out has another illustration in the quarrel between Davidson and Coyle, partners of the firm which furnished a countless number of safes to New York city and county under the Tammany Ring At a recent hearing before a referee, accounts were presented showing that safes and side boards to the value of some $60,000 had been furnished to Tweed, Genet, Connolly, Tom Fields and others of the Ring, as presents for their friends, with the understanding that they were not to be paid for, the firm getting even by their padded bills against the public treasury. Among the names of those who received this plunder, is that of Oakey Hall, nearly all the Police Judges of New York city, John F Cleveland, of the Tribune, and several others not hitherto fully identified with the old Ring

A S Kennard, acting secretary of the Howard Association in Memphis, Tenn., has been arrested on the charge of embezzling the funds of the association, but has been released on bail. The officers of the association, after a critical examination of the books, could find nothing wrong in them. His wife admits that jealousy prompted her to have him arrested, but insists on her original statement

Adam Black, the celebrated Edinburgh publisher is dead at the age of eighty nine He was publisher of the "Encyclopædia Britannica, and on the failure of Constable & Co. succeeded to the publication of the Edinburgh Review and "The Waverley Novels." He was a man of culture as well as of business talents, and in his publishing schemes betrayed a far sighted intelligence and liberality In his time he had taken a quite prominent part in politics, having cast his lot with the Ultra Liberal party, to whom Great Britain owes so much

It is the Washington correspondent of the Boston Post who relates the following "Richard H Cain, colored Representative-at Large from South Carolina, rather used up Representative Robbins, of North Carolina, yesterday, in a discussion upon the Civil Rights bill Robbins made some ill advised and ill tempered if not unjust remarks, derogatory to the colored people, and asserted that they were inferior to the whites in every respect save dancing and comic minstrelsy Cain, who was formerly a Baptist preacher, and who is a ready and eloquent speaker, replied to Robbins in a manner that was highly creditable to himself and the reverse to Mr. Robbins Democratic and Republican members of Congress express the belief that a few more speeches similar to that of Robbins yesterday and of Judge Harris, of Virginia, about a week ago, will have the effect of making possible the passage of the Civil Rights bill, which they feel sure would not have been adopted had less malice and unfriendly feeling towards the colored people been exhibited in the debate in Congress"

BOARD OF TRADE AND MANUFACTURES ANNUAL MEETING FOR ELECTION OF OFFICERS, ETC

The annual meeting of the Bangor Board of Trade and Manufactures was held yesterday afternoon at three o'clock in the office of the Northern Border, the President—R S Prescott, Esq —in the chair The report of the last meeting was read by the Secretary and approved

The Secretary was instructed to draw up a remonstrance against the construction of a bridge across the Penobscot river below this city, to be signed by the President and Secretary and forwarded to Mr Morse, to be presented to the Legislature

In accordance with the instructions of the Board, the Secretary reported the following resolutions.—

Since the last meeting of the Bangor Board of Trade and Manufactures an esteemed and influential member of this body, Hon. Franklin Muzzy, has to our sorrow been taken away by death; therefore,

Resolved, That in this loss to our society we have occasion for the sincerest grief, and we feel that, as citizens, our loss is greater than words can adequately express.

Resolved, That we tender to the family our sincerest sympathy in their bereavement, hoping that a kind Providence will have them in its constant keeping and so soothe the great sorrow that has fallen on them and us.

Resolved, That in token of our esteem for the memory of our honored friend, these resolutions be entered upon our journal and published in the city papers.

The resolutions were unanimously passed, and it was voted that a copy be furnished to the family of deceased.

Wilder's New Bobbin Winder, winds the thread on a bobbin without the use of a person's hands, as even as thread is wound on a spool by the manufacturers. This, as every lady knows, is a very important thing in order to get an even tension, and it is very hard to do without these machines, which not only save an abundance of time, but wind one-third more thread on a bobbin. FROM ROCKLAND.

THE PETTEE MYSTERY—CORONER'S INQUEST.

ROCKLAND, Jan 27.

The coroner's inquest in the case of Caroline Pettee, the woman who was found in a dying condition on Saturday morning, was continued yesterday afternoon and evening, and at the conclusion of the evening session was adjourned for one week. No evidence has yet been obtained as to how, when, or by whom the wounds on the head of the deceased, and the bruises and contusions on the limbs were inflicted.

NOT INTOXICATED

Dr Banks, who made the post mortem examination, testified that no alcohol was found in the stomach of the deceased, that she could not have been intoxicated at the time of her death, nor have been drinking within a number of hours preceding.

THE EVIDENCE.

The evidence showed that deceased left the Thorndike house Friday morning, where she had been for some days, and went to Burns' where she remained during the day, that she went out early in the evening, and soon returned, that Mrs. Thorndike came there and quarrel'ed with deceased and Mrs. Burns, accusing them of having taken money belonging to her that Mrs Thorndike attempted to search Mrs Pettee, and Mrs Burns interfered, and blows passed between her and her sister, Mrs. Thorndike, and the latter was

PUT OUT OF THE HOUSE.

Mrs Pettee went, or was pushed out, previously, and left the house after this quarrel She was seen by a neighbor to come towards the Burns house somewhere about ten o'clock, the latest which any witness has positively testified of seeing her till she was found in the morning.

THE UNKNOWN MAN.

Ann Burns says that she saw an unknown man near her house at twelve o'clock, and a Mrs Martin, the next neighbor, testifies to having seen a man and a woman standing there but does not identify them Thorndike and his wife appear to know but remarkably little about the matter, considering the circumstances.

THE GENERAL OPINION

is that the woman died from the effects of the beating she received. All the circumstances point to this conclusion Various theories and suspicions are strongly entertained, but 'Who did it?' is still the mystery

First Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.

SENATE.

Senate petitions were presented as follows. By the Chair and Mr. Thurman, from the soldiers of the late war, asking for an additional bounty—referred to the Committee on Pensions, by Mr. Thurman, of the property holders of Washington city, praying that inquest go on into the affairs of the District of Columbia Government, asked for a few days since, be granted—tabled

Mr Cameron from the Committee on Foreign Relations reported the bill to pay the French spoliation claims. Placed on the calendar.

Mr Wright introduced a bill amendatory of the act relating to soldiers' and sailors' homesteads Referred to the Committee on Public Lands

Mr Edmunds offered a resolution of inquiry whether the treaty of 1855 with the Chippewa Indians was still in force and what action, if any, had been taken within the last two years, and what claims were still pending Agreed to

Mr McCreery moved that the credentials of Hon Wm L McMillan, as Senator from Louisiana, be recommitted to the Committee on Privileges and Election. Agreed to.

The Senate proceeded to consider the resolution relative to inter State railroads, cheaper transportation, &c.

Mr Morton addressed the Senate in favor of the resolution.

After Mr Morton's speech on cheap transportation the finance resolution was taken up, but Mr Bayard not being ready to speak, further consideration was postponed until tomorrow

Mr Sumner's civil rights bill, introduced on the first day of the session, was taken up.

Mr Ferry of Conn, moved that it be referred to the Judiciary.

Mr. Sumner said it had twice been referred to that committee, and he could see nothing in the motion but delaying opposition, and appealed to the Senate to take the bill into its own hands now, as the necessity of its passage was manifested every day.

Quite a lengthy discussion ensued, several Senators opposing the bill as unconstitutional, among them Mr Morrill of Maine.

The joint resolution for the election of President by the people and abolishing the office of Vice President was taken up

Mr Sumner said he believed the President should be elected by the votes of the people without electoral colleges. The resolution was referred to the Election Committee.

A bill was introduced enabling Susan B. Anthony to pay the fine imposed upon her for voting Referred to the Judiciary Committee

The bill authorizing the organization of national banks without circulation was then taken up and Mr. Morton offered an amendment which was discussed for a while and on taking a vote it was found that there was no quorum, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mr Hawley of Ill, introduced a bill to provide for the systematic and accurate keeping of the public accounts on the part of the Government, to expedite auditing of the same and provide records for reference.

Mr Stowell of Va., from the Post Office Committee, reported back the Senate amendments to the post route bill, which was concurred in.

Mr Houghton of California, from the Pacific Railroad Committee, reported a bill to incorporate the Southern Trans-Continental Railroad Co, and grant the right of way through the public lands. Printed and recommitted.

Mr. Dawes of Mass., from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill allowing merchandise in United States ports 31st of July, 1872, to pay the duties to which they were liable on that day, even though not in a public store or bonded warehouse the next day. After explanation the bill was passed.

Mr. O'Neil of Pa., presented a petition for the redemption or conversion of legal tender notes outstanding since 1862, by issuing $1000 bonds at a fixed rate of interest, say 3 65-100 per annum.

The bill in relation to lines of telegraph connecting the capitol with the various departments of the Government, was passed.

A resolution was adopted directing the Committee on Commerce to inquire into the expediency of securing by international law or stringent regulations, the prescribing of ocean courses for inward and outward bound steam vessels in crossing the North Atlantic or other fog latitudes.

The House then resumed the consideration of the West Virginia election cases. At the close of the debate the House proceeded to vote. The resolutions of the majority of the Committee were that John J. Davis and J. M. Hogan, chosen at the August election, were not duly elected, and that Benj. Wilson and B. F. Martin, chosen at the October election, were duly elected. The resolutions of the minority took opposite ground and were supported by the Republican side of the House, those of the majority being supported by the Democrats. The result of the voting was that Davis and Hogan were declared entitled to seats and were accordingly sworn in. The time occupied in voting was over two hours, so that it was 6 o'clock when the House adjourned.

NEW YORK STATE.

RAILWAY DISASTER.

FISHKILL LANDING, Jan. 27. Owing to a broken rail the two rear Pullman and Wagner sleeping cars of the Montreal train, on the Troy & St. Albans R. R. were thrown from the track, two miles north of Portland, this morning Three persons were injured.

GREAT FLOOD AT FULTON.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Jan. 27. A despatch from Fulton on the Oswego river, says the most extensive flood known there for 20 years is now devastating the lower portions of the village, occasioned by high water in the river and the damming up of a large quantity of ice on both sides of the island channel for about half a mile and all west of the canals.

WATER COVERS THE GROUND

from two to seven feet deep. Sunday evening about 30 families were obliged to leave their homes and many more this morning were carried from the second story of their houses, where they had taken refuge by boats. One instance is related where a whole family were taken from their up-stairs retreat and among them a very sick mother carrying a tiny baby. Men were seen carrying the women of their households on their backs to a place of safety. A number of families have been cared for by the Poor Master. Some are being looked after by charitable citizens, and many still need assistance.

WADING IN THE WATER TO THEIR WAISTS,

THE DAMAGE

done to business is already great. The gas works are below water and there is no gas Some of the flour mills are unable to run and there is danger of work in all of them being stopped.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE STINER TRAGEDY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. A former cook of the Stiner family, four members of which were burned to death with their house two weeks ago, has been arrested, pending the inquest of the Coroner. Silver plate, known to have been in the house, and jewelry belonging to the dead, cannot be found since the fire, and robbery and murder are now insinuated in connection with the terrible affair.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Wm Miller, a young boy of Harlem, while playing with a pistol shot himself in the side, and received injuries from which he died.

HORRIBLE FATE OF A LUNATIC.

Peter Van Pelt, aged 65 and crazy, deliberately sat naked on a red hot stove in Brooklyn until roasted to death.

CLERGYMAN DEPOSED.

The trial of E. B Smith before the Westchester Presbytery, on a charge of creating a schism in the Presbyterian church by adopting certain doctrines and practices of the so-called Catholic Apostolic church, was concluded yesterday It was resolved unanimously that E B Smith be deposed from his functions as minister in the Presbyterian church. Mr. Smith previously proclaimed his intention to appeal to the Synod.

SERIOUS DESTRUCTION BY FIRE.

The loss by the burning last night of the Quintard Pattern Iron Works will reach $100,000, but the proprietors say that five times that amount will be required to replace the patterns destroyed, which included complete drawings and wooden patterns of all the steamships from the Fulton to the Merrimac, also Geo. Steers' famous patterns.

THE JERSEY CITY TREASURER ABSCONDED.

Much excitement was caused in Jersey City to-night by the announcement that City Treasurer Alexander D Hamilton had decamped with several thousand dollars of the city's money. At the meeting of the Board of Finance this evening it was found that over $400,000 of water bonds were missing, and also Hamilton's official bond. Hamilton left that city Friday for Trenton, but was heard of to day at Boston.

PENNSYLVANIA.

A PHYSICIAN CHARGED WITH WHOLESALE POISONING

PITTSBURG, Jan. 27 Dr. Wm. Smith was arrested last night, charged with poisoning several members of the family of J McDonald. Dr. Smith has been McDonald's family physician for some years. A few years ago he was convicted of passing counterfeit money and sentenced to the Penitentiary for five years, but was subsequently pardoned and resumed the practice of medicine. The case has created considerable excitement, and a number of sudden deaths which have occurred recently among his patients are thought to be the result of poisoning A stomach was analyzed and arsenic found there.

WAR ON THE COAL RING.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. A Philadelphia special says there is a report from Harrisburg that a newly organized combination, composed of prominent railroad men and capitalists, is about to open war against the coal combination The impression in coal trade circles is that as soon as the plans of the new organization are perfected, a most determined warfare will be commenced between it and the coal combination to secure a monopoly of the coal trade in the various anthracite regions of the State.

WASHINGTON

THE GENEVA AWARD—CLAIMS OF INSURANCE COMPANIES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. The Committee on Judiciary to day had before them the question of the Alabama claims. Mr. Dudley Field addressed the Committee in behalf of the Colombian Insurance Co. of New York, which failed Jan. 2, 1866, having paid out $632,000 for losses on vessels destroyed by the Alabama, Florida and Shenandoah. The amount of claims by the Company, including interest would be about $1,000,000.

Mr Brainard of N. Y. argued in favor of including losses by the Shenandoah before the period named in the award.

Hon. Wm. M Evarts, argued in favor of the claims of insurers who have paid their losses. He occupied an hour, reviewing the proceedings at Geneva, showing what claims were and were not considered. As one of the counsel before the Tribunal, he was listened to with marked attention. The Committee adjourned to Friday to enable him to complete his remarks.

NO LOUISIANA MESSAGE.

The President did not as expected send any Louisiana message to Congress to-day, it not yet being ready. It may be transmitted to morrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26. The trial of Charles Kinsey and his wife, W. W. Doe and James and Michael McLane, for the murder of Harvey Green at Pescadero, California, last June, commenced to-day in the District Court in this city.

TAX DECISION.

Judge Sawyer of the United States Circuit Court has decided that assessments levied against the Central Pacific Railroad for taxes in Santa Clara, San Joaquin, Sacramento, Placer and Nevada counties were irregular and for that reason void. The irregularity consisted in lumping the lands, road and rolling stock together for valuation, instead of assessing them separately.

MASSACHUSETTS.

FIRE.

NORTHBORO', Jan. 27. The house of Cyrus Gale was burned yesterday. Loss $6,000; insured $1,500.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Jan. 27. Hugh O'Connel of Worcester, brakeman on Boston & Worcester Railroad, fell from the train to-day and was run over receiving probably fatal injuries.

PANIC AT A PUBLIC MEETING.

A large meeting at which many women were present was held in Fall River last night in favor of the ten hour law. Resolves embodying the spirit of the gathering were adopted, one of which says: "We demand a ten-hour law of the legislature and pronounce any member of that body that opposes unfit for his place."

A SHAMEFUL TRICK—A PANIC CREATED.

While the meeting was in progress some one, probably for devility, gave an alarm of fire that caused a terrible commotion in the audience. Several windows were broken by men attempting to jump through.

A CALAMITY NARROWLY ESCAPED.

The women rushed to the platform and for a few moments eminent danger threatened the crowd from fright, but a strong voice called that there was no fire and after a stirring appeal from the Secretary the commotion subsided.

VERMONT.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT—THREE PERSONS INJURED.

RUTLAND, Jan. 27. At an early hour this morning the down night express on the Rutland & Burlington Road, met with an accident about three miles north of this place caused by a broken journal. The New York sleeping coach was thrown from the track and dragged fifty yards before it stopped. Some twenty-five or thirty persons were in the car of whom the following were injured: A. S. Merchant of Burlington, bruised around the hip and across the breast; Senator Dickinson, of New York, slightly cut with glass and bruised, and E. C. Sherman of Rutland, ankle sprained and otherwise injured. The track was blocked about twelve hours, but trains are now passing.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LIVINGSTONE'S DEATH DOUBTED.

LONDON, Jan. 27. At a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society last night, several members expressed a doubt as to the authority of the report of Dr. Livingstone's death Mr. Kirk said that when he left Zanzibar in September rumors of a similar character were current. He thought that if the news was true, it would have been officially forwarded before the present date.

MINISTERIAL REPLIES TO DISRAELI.

Mr. Foster has issued an address to his constituents. He upholds the existing education act. Mr Lowe, in a similar address, replies categorically to Disraeli's criticism. He shows how that which was characterized as "unenergetic administration" has carried the country through the crisis of a European war without comprising its dignity or giving of fense to either party. The Government trusts and believes that it has established permanent relations of friendship and good will with the United States Mr Bright's address is expected to morrow

THE FIRST PULLMAN CAR EXCURSION.

A party of prominent personages made an excursion trip yesterday, from Derby to Buxton in Pullman Palace sleeping and parlor cars, the first put on the Great Midland Railway of England, under its contract with the Pullman Palace Car Co. The American improvement in railway travelling is received with great enthusiasm.

THE ELECTION.

It is believed that the general election will be completed by the 10th of February. Both parties are confident of success. The betting is now in favor of the Liberals.

DOMINION.

DR. LIVINGSTONE.

TORONTO, Jan. 27. In relation to Dr. Livingstone's death, his brother, John Livingstone, who resides in Listowell, Ont., says: "I have had no direct intelligence from the Doctor since Stanley's return. The last letter which reached friends in England from my brother was dated August, 1872, from Unyanyembe, on the eve of his leaving for the interior."

THE COLD SNAP.

HALIFAX, Jan. 26. The weather is very cold here, being ten degrees below zero this afternoon, wind west and northwest.

WEST INDIES.

FREIGHTS, ETC.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 27. Dates have been received from St. Thomas to Jan. 13.

There have been numerous arrivals there, principally of sailing vessels. Many proceeded to the Southern States in ballast. Others were chartered to load logwood at Hayti for Europe at fair rates. Freight had declined within a fortnight but little was offering for the United States.

It is anticipated that the sugar crops of Porto Rico and Cuba will open early next month, when small and medium sized vessels will find ready employment.

MARINE DISASTERS.

AT BERMUDA IN DISTRESS.

HALIFAX, Jan. 27. The barque Wasatch, from Fernandina for Montevideo, put into Bermuda on the 4th inst., with loss of sails, spars, &c.

Brig Springbird, from Maracaibo for New York, also put into Bermuda, leaky.

A SHIP SUNK.

The American ship Calumet, of Newburyport, Mass., Cheever, from Calcutta, bound to Boston, with a cargo of indigo, shellac, hides, etc., arrived at Murray's anchorage, Bermuda, on the 4th inst, with the mainmast badly sprung, sails gone, and leaking badly, and while attempting to enter St. George's harbor the 9th instant in tow of a steam-tug, and in charge of competent pilots, struck on a shoal and soon sank in 35 feet of water. Only about 100 tons of the cargo were saved in a dry state. The hull is breaking up fast.

BRADLAUGH.

HIS VIEWS OF THE COMING ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. Charles Bradlaugh has written a letter concerning the prospects of the Radicals in the coming general election in England. He says that it is probable that there will be more Conservatives elected and fewer Whigs; but the Conservatives will have to promise some very Radical measures in order to get returned, and in addition the next Parliament will show a sturdy Radical band to rally around such men as Henry Fawcett, Peter H. Taylor and Sir Charles Dilke.

THE MINERS' CANDIDATES.

Mr. Cowan will most certainly be re-elected for Newcastle-on-Tyne, and for the first time in English history the working miners will probably be represented in the House of Commons. They have at least three different candidates. There is now a Radical party growing and I believe that this party which has mustered a gallant little band even in the Parliament just dissolved, will be strengthened so materially by the Parliament about to be elected, that it will not only be strong enough to prevent the Conservatives from retaining office for any long term, even supposing that they should win it, but will be able so materially to modify the Liberal programme that Whigism of the Granville type might as well perform the Japanese harikari."

A gentleman from another State who has had long experience in the business, but whose establishment was not long since destroyed by fire, proposes to come here to take charge of the concern, if sufficient encouragement is offered. BANGOR POLICE COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE GOODENOW.

Tuesday, Jan 27th. Joseph Cobb was arraigned for an assault with a knife on James Wall, on Harlow street, a week ago Monday evening.

Col. Jasper Hutchings, County Attorney, appeared for the State and Col. J. Frank Godfrey for the respondent. Wall, who was stabbed, did not appear, and cannot be found in the city, so that no direct testimony fixing the assault upon Cobb, was elicited Several witnesses testified that Cobb was a peaceable, inoffensive young man, and the Judge on summing up the evidence, decided that there was not sufficient to hold him on the charge. Cobb was therefore discharged.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT

JANUARY (CIVIL) TERM—JUDGE CUTTING PRESIDING.

Tuesday, Jan 27th The second jury has been dismissed and the Court adjourned until Wednesday morning, when cases standing over will be attended to, and a final adjournment made as soon as possible.

DECISIONS AT LAW

The following cases at law have been decided and reported from the Full Court —

PENOBSCOT COUNTY.

John B Parks vs Wm. A. Crockett and logs; on demurrer and exceptions by defendant. "Exceptions overruled, judgment in rem against the logs, etc."

Cushman. Brown & Simpson.
A. Sanborn.

Rescript —The general owner of logs, not the debter, in a suit to enforce a lien, may demur to the plaintiff's writ and declaration, as insufficient to establish such lien

By the act of 1862, chapter 131, the writ is sufficient for such purposes, though in the ordinary form of assumpsit, if the declaration discloses that the suit is brought to enforce a lien on the logs attached.

The writ will be deemed insufficient if one count therein contains a claim in personam and another count a different claim in rem.

The clause in the Revised Statutes, Sec. 31, Chap. 91, taken from Act of 1862, Chap. 131, which provides, that in a lien action the forms and proceedings shall be the same as in ordinary actions of assumpsit, is to be construed as permissive and not mandatory, so that the word "shall," contained therein, will be construed as meaning may.

A lien claim can be preserved in no form of proceeding without notice to log owners, the necessity of which under the statute of 1855 was not abrogated by the act of 1862.—Peters, J.

Ann S. French vs. John L. Crosby, et al. on report on default. "Default to stand, damages to be assessed according to agreement in the report of the case."

J. F. Godfrey. Paine.

Edward H. Burr in Equity vs. Chas. D Hutchinson; on bill and answer. "Bill sustained without cost, decree to be entered which with the deeds required to be exchanged, shall be approved by the Court."

Vose. A. Sanborn.

Rescript.—Where the complainant bargained one parcel of land, and by a mistake of both parties conveyed another parcel to the respondent, the equitable jurisdiction of this Court will authorize it to reform such deed according to the intention of the parties, and, by decree, to protect the interest of such persons as may legally claim to hold the correct premises through and under the respondent—Peters, J.

KENNEBEC COUNTY.

Charles Hewins vs. Rufus A Currier, et al "Exceptions overruled; nonsuit confirmed."

Rescript.—An action of debt will not lie on a bail bond in this State, scire facias being the only remedy.

A bail bond is not insufficient as a statute bond in which the condition is that the debtors shall "abide, do and perform the judgment;" those words meaning no more than that he shall "abide" the judgment obtained.—(Peters, J.)

SAGADAHOC COUNTY.

Harriett M. Bailey vs. Charles T. Bailey "Exceptions overruled; judgment on the verdict."

Rescript.—A conveyance of real estate by a husband, though made before a cause of divorce had accrued, and for a full and valuable consideration, is void as between the husband and wife, if made expressly to prevent her from recovering such alimony as the Court might decree to her in case a petition for divorce should be filed.

If after divorce granted, the husband obtains a reconveyance to himself of real estate thus previously conveyed, a decree of Court made, under such circumstances, allowing the wife to hold it as against an attempted conveyance made by him without any consideration, thereafter.

Forcible entry and detainer lies against an agent

if guilty as well as against his principal.—Peters, J.

Inhabitants of West Gardiner vs. inhabitants of Hartland. "Plaintiffs nonsuit."

Rescript.—The cause of action originates when the expenses, incurred at the Insane Hospital by a town for the support of an insane pauper, who is not an inhabitant, are paid to the Hospital, and the statute of limitations then commences running.

A notice before such payment would seem to be premature.

LIBRARY CONSOLIDATION.

THE BANGOR AND MECHANIC LIBRARIES CONSOLIDATED AT LAST—TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT, ETC.

The subject of consolidating the libraries of the Mechanic Association and the Bangor Library Association, so long discussed, was finally disposed of last evening at a meeting of the two committees in whose hands the matter had been placed by the respective organizations. The Bangor Library Association's proposal to give their books and all the other property in their possession to the Mechanic Association, if the latter would assume all their liabilities and permit all persons duly qualified to become members of the Association, with equal privileges, was accepted, and the articles of transfer, etc, were signed by both committees. The objection that some had raised to the assumption of the liabilities mentioned was waived, as the report of the Treasurer of the Bangor Association showed that its total indebtedness is $3,339 11, and the assets $3,801 52, leaving a balance of $462.41 which will be paid to the Treasurer of the Mechanic Association after the debts are liquidated. By the articles of consolidation apprentices are to have free access to the library as heretofore.

The meeting of the committees was then adjourned and the adjourned meeting of the Mechanic Association opened, when the action taken by the committee was ratified. An amendment to the Constitution was adopted, making the annual assessments of members payable in advance, and another which provides that any person who is properly vouched for as prescribed in the rules, may, on the payment of $2 per annum, take out two books at a time, and on the payment of an additional dollar an additional book. This will enable those who do not wish to become members to take out two books or as many as they may wish, one dollar being paid for each additional volume

After the amendments had passed, it was voted to instruct the Government of the Association to hire the Bangor Library rooms for five years, as they were offered at an annual rental of $500; also to take the necessary steps for the removal of the books, cabinets and other property to those rooms as soon as the lease is completed.

The Government and Directors of the two Associations were instructed to petition the Legislature for a special act permitting the city to appropriate money for the benefit of the Consolidated Library.

Nine members were admitted, and after some further unimportant action the meeting adjourned one week.

The majority of those present expressed themselves as much pleased with this new step toward a free public Library and with the present flattering prospect, the day is not far distant when the entire property will pass into the control of the city and the question of a free library be solved beyond a doubt.

We should have been glad to publish, for the benefit of many of the members of both Associations who were not present at the meeting last night, as well as for the information of our citizens, who have a deep interest in the matter of a free library and all steps leading thereto, the exact text of the agreement on which the consolidation was effected, but our reporter was denied access to the document. The principal points and terms of the contract, however, are given above

THOSE FIRE EXTINGUISHERS.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

As the season most to be dreaded is fairly upon us, and our business sections are almost entirely unprotected from fire, our water supply cut off by the freezing of the Kenduskeag, this community have a right to know the true state of the case. To meet this serious deficiency of water, a Babcock Fire Extinguisher was ordered several months ago, and is ready to be put into service as soon as authority is given the Chief Engineer to form a company to use and take care of it. Application was made to the Mayor and Aldermen nearly two months ago by me, as Chief Engineer, under Sec. 18th of our Fire Ordinances, which provides that "the Mayor and Aldermen shall designate the number of fire companies and the number of men to each," but I have as yet failed to receive that authority. Also "the Engineer of the Steam Fire Engines," with the Committee on Fire Department, were ordered to purchase one of Lapham & Clark's Extinguishers, and various efforts made to organize "outside companies," ignoring the regular officers of the department, and substituting the "Revised Statutes" for our City Ordinances, and by substituting the Steamer Engineer for the Chief, whose duty is imperative under Sec 8th, "to appoint all firemen Some three or four such orders have been introduced to override the Ordinances and set aside the Chief Engineer Yesterday morning this "farce" culminated in a man by the name of Gordon, who approached me (after the fire was under control and the firemen had worked an hour and were encrusted with ice, some badly frozen, all stiffened up with fatigue and ice) with the question "Have you any objection to my bringing up the 'Little Giant?' I replied that I had not the least objection. This seemed to disconcert him, he then asked if I would man and work her, and I replied that I had no men—our firemen had had all they could do to man and work their own machines, and had nobly done their duty.

I have repeatedly assured the agent of these Extinguishers that as soon as he has the necessary authority as provided by the City Ordinances, to appoint suitable men to man them and take proper care of them, I will use them fairly and see that their capacity as fire extinguishers is satisfactorily tested, according to the terms of purchase, which provides that they shall be tested to the satisfaction of the officers of the Fire Department. Such a course certainly will and ought to satisfy every one, and is insisted upon by the agents of the "Babcock Extinguishers"

E. LOW, Chief Engineer
Bangor Fire Department.

An act to incorporate the Rockland & Thomaston Water Company, to provide further protection to inmates of the insane hospital and guard against error in commitments thereto, resolve in favor of Peter Salmore

The report of the Committee on Education in regard to establishing a State Industrial School for Girls submitting a bill and a resolve appropriating $12,000 for the purpose, was considered.

Mr. Foster, of Oxford, argued at length against the bill and resolve, and in support of the position of the minority of the Committee that legislation upon the subject is inexpedient. His position was that the State on the score of economy could not afford to assume the responsibility of maintaining the school and cited the cost of such institutions in Massachusetts. He alluded also to the request of the Reform School shortly to be made for an appropriation of $20,000, and thought the Legislature should well consider the matter before imposing an additional burden of some $25,000 a year, as will be the case, judging by the workings of similar institutions in other States, if the State becomes responsible for this school

Mr. Burgess of Cumberland, supported the bill and resolve It was an error to state that the school would cost $25,000 a year It cost Massachusetts that sum to maintain five schools, and upon the same basis, this school would only cost $5,000 per year, but this cost weighs as nothing in proportion to the good results to be accomplished, if the results in other institutions may be relied upon

Mr. Emery of Hancock, advocated the bill and resolve, and cited statistics showing the favorable workings and results in other States and in foreign countries

On a call of the yeas and nays the minority report was rejected. yeas 9, nays 19 The majority report was accepted, and the bill and resolve were read and assigned for to morrow for consideration on their passage to be engrossed

Bill to incorporate the Lockwood Cotton mills of Waterville, with R. B. Dunn and others as corporators and a capital stock of $2,000,000 was presented by Mr Webb of Kennebec and referred to the Committee on Manufactures.

The House order for a special joint committee on State Prison Affairs came back from the Senate amended. The question being on receding and concurring, Mr. Talbot of East Machias, obtained the floor and entered into an elaborate argument in support of the order He believed the time for a change in the office of Warden had arrived He thought the salary of $4000 per annum, given the Warden, was disproportionate to the salaries paid other State officers. It was then taken up and warmly discussed by Messrs Morrow of Bangor, Knowlton of Skowhegan, Swazey of Canton, and Kallock of Thomaston The vote stood—yeas 40, nays 89; and the House refused to concur.

S, relating to marriage, by striking therefrom the words "at least five days;" that the Committee on Banks and Banking inquire into the expediency of so amending chap. 40, sec 41, R. S., that it may read "The Trustees shall see to the proper and safe investment of deposits and funds of the corporation in the manner they regard perfectly safe, but no loan exceeding 25 per cent. of the amount on deposit shall be made on security of names alone, nor directly or indirectly to any one of the Trustees, or any firm of which he is a member, that the Com. on Insane Hospital examine and consider the offer of Mr. Baxter of Gorham of his place as a site for a new Hospital, and report what in their judgment may seem proper; that the Com. on Education inquire into the expediency of authorizing the School Committees of the several towns in each county to meet in convention yearly.

UNDER THE SNOW.

BY E. F. W.

In my Father's House. John, 14th ch. 2d verse

Under the snow, my love lies sleeping,
Under the pitiless snow-wreath cold,
While countless stars, their watch are keeping
O'er this silent form below.

Only the casket is lying there—
The spirit, it long ones hoped,
Has soared away to the mansions fair
In my Father's house, assigned.

Eye hath not seen, nor the ear hath heard,
Nor the light of Heaven adorn
A glimpse of the joy it has stirred
As it entered before the Throne;

As he heard the Saviour's loving words,
"I will come," than faithful and true,
Enter the mansions Heaven affords,
Prepared, and reserved for you.

Spotless and white is the robe he wears,
And his face, so marred by pain,
The glorious image of Jesus bears,
Unsullied by earthly stain.

There are loving hands to clasp his own
Of children and kindred dear,
In that brighter Home where he is gone,
But we miss him sadly here.

A little while—in a few short years,
We too have passed away,—
Like a dream, will seem earth's hopes and fears,
In the light of Eternal Day.

Bangor, Nov. 26,—Christian Mirror.

MORELLE'S FLIRTATION.

(Concluded.)

Of course Johnny went into raptures over the name, and we all to do ourselves justice cheered him on. It was a dull day, and we could think of no better sport that morning, nor, in fact, for many mornings after it, than to stir up Johnny and to draw him out on the subject of the magnificent Miss Bristed. Volumes would not hold the written out details of that fellow's love affair. The poles that he made, the gloves he ruined, and the jewelry that he bought and was going to buy; the letters he wrote and destroyed; the whispered confidences with Dick and Bertie; and, on one side of the barring two or three meetings on the train, when Johnny picked up her handkerchief, or opened a window for her, and received the shortest words of thanks, Miss Bristed herself appeared not to have figured in the proceeding at all. But at length there came a change. One morning Johnny danced in upon us as on air, all his pink and white turned to glow, and his tongue in full effort to do the work of ten tongues at once. He had sat beside the beautiful creature all the way into town—"And she talked, and I know where she lives a gorgeous place, with lawn and green-houses and ushers and a queen, and she should have a parlor, and O——" Customers stopped Johnny's tongue. Nothing else could have done it, and that afternoon, in the midst of this ecstasy, Satan put it into Bert Fletcher's heart to tempt Johnny to indite some poetry to Miss Bristed. Would you believe it, that goose actually equipped himself with a quire of foolscap, plus a ream of gilt-edge note paper, and went into retirement behind a packing box, and set about it. We agreed to do his work for him, and, two hours later the young lover came out with his eyes big and bright, his cheeks burning, his curls like a raven's nest, and some rhymes about 'love' and 'dove,' and 'crepe' and 'moon,' and 'forlorn,' and no end of stuff, and which we all swore—mercy on us for the perjury—was poetry. It was actually sent, Bert undertaking to convey it to the post himself, and expecting back looking wickedest that he could. Only two days afterwards. And it may be credited, Johnny came flying in with a flutter of note paper, a general clutter, in fact, flourishing the same about aloft, and summoning all hands to an audience, while he read some very smooth little rhymes over the sign manual of Helena Bristed. The poem of Johnny had actually brought an answer! That woman hadn't written really to him! exclaimed Mrs. Fred, looking shocked. Written? Why should she have sent the pile of poetry and the effusions that passed between us after that—Morelle waxed more sublime than ever, began to take airs as if a family man elect, and congratulated chiefly with Dick. Cheever, who was known to be engaged. All this while Bert was running over with fun, and, indeed, he himself darkly hinted to me more than once that there would be richer sport by and by.

"Wright, just you look here." That was one evening when Johnny had dragged me off to a corner, and all whispering mysteriously. If people have got anything to tell, they, you see, always take me to tell it to. Don't know why. I'm sure. It's my phiz. I suppose. I must have a receptive air, I think. Anyhow, I'm always made the victim of secrets. Now Johnny's was a box as big as your thumb, and in it, on a velvet cushion, a ring. "What's that for, Jacky?" says I. "Can't you think, Wright?" "Not if I were to die for it, I said—I lied, of course. Fred, I could but suppose. Now that letter has come, I'm on the eve of great events. I think I shall have my brain to-night." "To-night?" "To-night, Frederic.—She has promised to meet me in the Laurel Terrace of her home to-night, and walk with me. She has promised." "All right I wish you joy, Johnny, only it's dark as Egypt, and you'll have to imagine each other's beauties; but that you're equal is supposed. You're good at imagining. Good night." So I left Johnny to the mercies of his divine Helena, and that evening I had a telegram from Cousin Dolly in Baltimore that Aunt Nan was dying, and I set off express for her bedside. She didn't die then, and she hasn't died yet, and I have a premonition that she'll live to wear crape for me and my wife and children. But anyhow, I was gone a fortnight, and when I came back there was Johnny's engagement all over Broadway. Dyer's Dillon proposed to send some out to Paris. Dick Cheever was the same out to be married, and take Johnny so he was to be married, and take madame on the wedding tour, and so "kill two birds with one stone," as the saying goes. That, instead of weeping at Aunt Nan's obsequies. I was bidden to dance at Dick's wedding, I and the rest, and we did it with a will. Of course, we all dressed in our best clothes, and our best tempers, and two of us, Johnny and I, as it chanced, were elected to escort the two Varney girls, Dick's Massachusetts cousins. Pretty girls they were too, with hair like yellow floss silk, and long enough to tread on, but Morelle's heart was elsewhere, I could see that. "Look, Fred," he whispered, and spread out that little paw of his with a seal ring on the finger. "Helena Bristed!" And he gazed at his hand as a mother on her first born. I expected to see him tie a down the finger of his lavender kid, that he might devour the ring with his eyes all the while. But he didn't.

It was a church wedding, and an evening one. We'd just got well seated—I must hurry up this long story, it takes forever to tell a thing, but the dress of it is just coming—we'd got seated pretty well up in the church, and the organ was thundering away the wedding march, and the ushers were flying about like several cats in several fits, when I felt Johnny grasp my arm. "Look Fred," he whispered huskily. "There she is, sir! Isn't she glorious? Confound that red-whiskered fellow!" I looked, and there, sure enough, all in a shimmer of lace, and with white roses in her black hair and her great slow moving eyes, you know, came Johnny Morelle's divinity up the aisle.

"O Helen Bristed!" sighed Johnny, "What a queen among women you are!"

The apostrophe was cut short by the entrance of the bride herself, and then the performance began. Morelle had no eyes for anybody or anything, save the regal female in lace. I noted the tall Saxon secret along side of her, thought what a handsome pair they were, and as I was watching Dick and thanking how specially uncomfortable he looked, and as though he'd be jolly glad when he was well out of it. Fact is I never went to but one decent wedding and that was my own, but now the rector went on with the service, and I heard

"Helen Bristed, wilt thou have this man, &c?" I heard no more! I glanced quick as lightning at Morelle. I expected nothing but he would jump up and forbid the banns; but he was staring with a sort of frozen look at the bride. This Helena Bristed, at all events was not the lady of his love. She was slight and blue-eyed and petite.

The ceremony over, and we whisked away to the reception, Johnnie whispered, "Strange that there should be two. Strange I thought, but a stranger thing was coming. At the door I was attacked again. "Fred, as I'm a living man, I'll be at the same house." "No such go, Johnny." "No, but I tell you there's the Laurel Terrace where I walked with Helena."

I contrived to suppress Morelle till we got into the dressing room, and the next I remember we were waiting for the ladies in the upper hall. It was well lighted, and there was no end of flowers everywhere, and I was thinking what a deep berth Dick had got into, when I looked at Johnny, and saw the pink suddenly go out of his smooth cheeks, and his eyes fixed at something down the hall. There she was coming slowly towards us, sailing along on the arm of her big blond cavalier, calm and smiling. That instant a door somewhere burst open, and a little fellow three years old toddled out, curls flying, and arms raised toward's Morelle's divinity; and then straightway, we looking on, the lady left her escort, took a quick step forward and seized the child in her arms, giving a little, low, mother cry.

"Max is glad to see mamma again?" she cooed, and Johnny grasped my arm, for I really believed he would have dropped. "What does it mean?" he gasped. "She's a widow." I answered, snatching at the only hope that came in sight. But no sooner were the words out of my mouth before a low voice, a woman's voice, at one side spoke so quietly, "Ah, here is my railroad friend. Alec, this is Mr. Morelle. (I think I have the name, have I not?) Mr. Morelle, Dr. Ames, my husband."

Her husband! How I ever got Johnny decently out of that I never knew, but I had him in a corner in the dressing room in sixty seconds, and there I stood over him comforting him with the firm avowal of my intent to kill him then and there if he didn't behave himself. "O, but Fred, dear Fred, what does it mean?" he whispered, when he found a tongue at last.

"Yes, and what did it mean?" asked Mrs. Fred.

"Bert Fletcher was the one to ask. The truth is, it was all a device of that imp, slightly aided by Dick. "I tell you, Bert, you ought to be lynched," I said to him next day. "Well, it was too bad I suppose, Fred," he answered. "Really, though I didn't mean to go quite so deep into it that first day when Mrs. Ames came into the store with her sister's shopping bag. But I have owed Johnny a grudge ever since he got me late at night in the Hoboken station, that fall." "But the notes? and the poetry? and the ring?—and Bert, the walk on Laurel Terrace?" "Wrote them myself, and for the walk I dressed up Jem Varney myself, and for the ring I dressed in my sister Libby's tweed and hat, and it was pitch dark."

"And you knew all the time who this Mrs. Ames was, Bert? You knew she was married, and not Helen Bristed at all?"

"Knew? I should think I knew as they are both my cousins; but Johnny is such a coxcomb about ladies—always was. Besides, I've bamboozled other people that way. I've always been said to speak like Alice Ames.—I've played her part in a tableau twice. Oh, but it was too rich."

"Bert Fletcher, I hope Johnny will make himself even with you some day or other."—I said, and when I heard, last year, that Morelle had married Bert's sister, I said to myself that matters had been settled. Fifty that boy'll be fumbled of into the celestial next. Let me take him."

"It is a mystery to me," said Mrs. Fred. "It is a pleasure you men find in such jokes as that."

"As what? Carrying big, thirty pound babies round the house? That's no joke, I assure you, ma'am," and Fred went laughing down the hall.
